A word of welcome

Welcome to the research bulletin for the College of Economic and Management Sciences. OGSR believes that funding is the central vein that drives productivity, influence the volume of workload and research activities. Hence the recent request for the university's subscription to Research Professional Database, in which criteria can be set for more discipline/ subject specific funding, from all over the world.

Research Africa Professional Database offers UNISA and its scholars' the following: The latest research funding.

Call for fellowships and scholarships. Conference calls

Many of the funding calls will require data management, equality, and impact statements. Our team of NRF rated experts are ready to guide you through the process prior to submission.

Support to access Research Funding Database is available through the office of:

United States Agency for International Development (USAID), US

Through a year-round grant competition, Development Innovation Ventures (DIV) sources proposals for innovations that address international development challenges and improve the lives of people living in poverty in developing countries around the world. DIV provides tiered funding to pilot, test, and transition to scale (i.e., grow to reach the highest number of beneficiaries possible) those innovations that demonstrate evidence of impact, cost-effectiveness, and the potential to scale.

DIV funds four types of grants. Stage 1, Stage 2, and Stage 3 grants follow a tiered approach that aligns the funding amount to the strength of the evidence of impact, cost-effectiveness, and scalability of the proposed innovation. Evidence Generation grants are reserved for rigorous evaluations of already scaled or scaling development solutions that lack sufficient rigorous evidence of impact and cost-effectiveness.

DIV takes a portfolio approach to impact, meaning it takes relatively small, high-risk bets on early-stage innovations that may generate varying levels of impact as they are piloted, and invests larger amounts of money in later-stage innovations that are better able to demonstrate impact, thereby maximizing the social impact of the overall portfolio. DIV is deliberately open to all kinds of innovations and all forms of innovators, in all sectors and countries in which USAID operates. Ultimately, DIV aims to help transition the best innovations with proven impact to scale to improve the lives of millions of people around the world.

University Center for Human Values, US

The University Center for Human Values invites applications for Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Faculty Fellowships for the academic year 2025-26. Fellows devote an academic year in residence at Princeton to research and writing about topics involving human values in public and private life. This full-time visiting program is open to scholars in all disciplines across the humanities and social sciences. We welcome applications from scholars from a variety of disciplines.

Fellows are expected to reside in or around Princeton or demonstrate to the program's satisfaction the ability to commute to campus on a daily basis during the 12-week fall and spring semesters. Fellows pursue their own research and are active contributors to the intellectual life of the Center. This includes participating in a weekly seminar attended by fellows and Center faculty to discuss work in progress and in various other seminars, colloquia and lectures sponsored by the Center. Fellows enjoy access to Firestone Library and to a wide range of activities and facilities throughout the University.

Essential to the German Chancellor Fellowship programme are events designed to enable fellows to network and offer them insights into current topics and trends in German society, business, politics and culture. These events include:

- an opening conference in November (approx. one week);
- a half-time conference in the following spring (approx. one week);
- a meeting in Berlin in July with a reception at the German Chancellery (three days).

Complementing these events, fellows are given the opportunity and encouraged to independently collaborate in peer groups as well as organise smaller network formats and events during the sponsorship period.

Scope The workshop aims to bridge the gap between software engineering and business research. It is expected to continue the development of the community and its research topics, including emerging trends for software-intensive businesses, mapping challenges and best practices in the industry, and proposing new avenues for research and practice.

Topics

- Software product management (e.g., strategy, planning, pricing)
- Software ecosystem (e.g., engineering ecosystems, analysis of - ecosystem data, modeling of ecosystem structure and behavior, management of developer ecosystems and platforms)
- Continuous practices (e.g., experimentation, innovation, improvement)
- Agile & lean projects & portfolio (e.g., methods & practices, management and organizing, behavioral and cognitive factors)

- Organizational management (e.g., managing technical and social debt, integrating product and business development)
- Software startups (e.g., scaling, pivoting, business models)
- Software platform (e.g., orchestration, governance, architecture, evolution and lifecycle)
- Software engineering economics (e.g., in engineering of software or in the software industry)
- Emerging trends and research areas (e.g., remote work, deep learning, AI ethics, digital twins, management of human-AI symbiosis, etc.)

Specification Research papers must have a maximum length of 8 pages. Industry reports or positions papers are limited to 4 pages. It is not possible to pay for extra pages. There is no limit on the number of submissions an author may submit, but authors are advised to focus on quality rather than on quantity. We will follow a double-blind process, i.e., it is mandatory to anonymize the submission. The workshop papers will be published by the IEEE. Therefore, submissions must conform to the IEEE conference proceedings template, specified in the IEEE Conference Proceedings Formatting Guidelines.
