

Unisa has not yet opened applications for the 2019 second semester

For immediate release

03 April 2019

The University of South Africa (Unisa) has learnt with regret that there are scores of prospective students who have descended on some of the regional service centres today (Wednesday, 03 April 2019) to apply for admission to the second semester of 2019.

We have also established that the prospective students are responding to a false message distributed by an unknown source about Unisa's application process for this period. This statement was neither issued nor sanctioned by Unisa; and the university therefore distances itself from it.

Please note that official information regarding Unisa's application will be made available on Unisa's website: www.unisa.ac.za in due course. The university does not use third parties to distribute messages to applicants or students.

Please also be aware of social media sites that claim to represent Unisa. Unisa's official Facebook page is <https://www.facebook.com/UniversityOfSouthAfrica/> and the official Twitter page is <https://twitter.com/unisa>

We urge everyone to be vigilant online. Always check the Unisa website for the most up-to-date information regarding Unisa's processes.
